

BRILLIANT NUPTIALS

AT ALLENSVILLE LAST WEEK

Miss Marie Mahony, a Former Stanford Girl, Becomes Bride of Rev. August F. Balbach

Alleysville, Ky., Nov. 30.—The most brilliant social event of the season was the wedding of Miss Marie Mahony and the Rev. August Francis Balbach, of Camden, N. J., which was solemnized here at the First Baptist church on Thursday evening at six o'clock in the presence of a large company of friends and relatives.

The church was artistically decorated with palms and ferns, studded with attractively arranged candelabra and holly used in profusion.

Rev. B. F. Hagan, of Trenton, was the officiating minister and before the ceremony, a musical program was rendered by Mrs. Walter Carvell, organist and Mrs. Hamill, who sang in her usual sweet and impressive manner, "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me." The bride party entered the church by Mendelssohn's wedding march, while Leobergren's was used as a recessional.

Mrs. Carvell played the flower song very softly, during the ceremony. The ushers Messrs. Thomas Lyne, Warren Walton, Charlie Gill and Frank Smith wore black suits and the groom and best man were dressed in Prince Alberts.

The bride's maids were Misses Elizabeth Walton, Annie Balbach and Olive Walton, wore reception dresses of blue cloth and carried pink carnations and maiden hair fern. The maid of honor, Miss Virginia Mahony, the bride's sister, in a brown costume with trimmings of green satin and lace, carried a beautiful bouquet of Killarney roses and ferns.

The bride was lovely in her exquisite wedding gown of blue velvet combined with imported lace and carried a white satin ribbon from each end of which fell a shower of valley lilies. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, the Rev. R. B. Mahony, was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. A. G. Balbach, father of the groom.

Following the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony, the bridal party and a few intimate friends were entertained at the home of the bride. A tempting buffet luncheon was served. Rev. and Mrs. Balbach left on the evening train for a week's stay in Chicago and Minneapolis after which they will be at home at Long Prairie, Minn., where Rev. Balbach is pastor of the Baptist church. The bride's traveling costume was a stylish blue whipcord with hat to harmonize. A very large and handsome collection of wedding presents was received by the exceeding popular young couple, and their host friends extend to them their hearty congratulations.

IN HONOR OF BRIDE

Beautiful Entertainments Given For Miss Mahony Last Week

A friend at Alleysville sends the I. J. the following appreciated account of two beautiful affairs given in honor of Miss Marie Mahony, formerly of this city, whose wedding to Rev. August Balbach, was celebrated there last week:

Miscellaneous Shower

Misses Olive and Elizabeth Walton, entertained Tuesday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower, in honor of Miss Marie Mahony at their country home "Walton Manor", which was very attractive on this beautiful November afternoon.

The entire parlor floor was used for the entertainment and the decorations were unusually beautiful, consisting of chrysanthemums, red and white roses and plumosa. After being served to chocolate and wafers, we entered the first reception room and met Miss Mahony, Miss Virginia Mahony, Miss Balbach, Miss Elizabeth Walton. We then listened to a Victrola produce the most popular airs.

After a short time we entered the main parlor and awaited the appearance of Cupid, in the form of Master John Roberts Walton, bringing with him a large red heart on wheels filled to overflowing with presents for Miss Mahony. She was the happy recipient of many most beautiful gifts and displayed them, one by one and the hearts of her friends went out to her, as she stood before them, joyous in her possessions and spoke words of love and appreciation. She stood aside after having filled two tables with household attractions and belongings.

Among the most prized presents received was a solid silver salad fork, presented by the Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church, secured by the efforts of Miss Small.

We were then taken into the dining room and seated. A large table was in center of the room, white and red roses formed the handsome centerpiece, silver candelabras were at corners of the table, filled with red candles. The ices and cakes were in red and white. The red ice was effectively decorated by Cupid in white, the white block cake, bore Miss Mahony's initials in red.

Red and white heart-shaped mints were served. The favors consisted of little white satin bags filled with rice.

Miss Mahony wore a blue velvet gown beautifully trimmed in lace, and large black hat with feathers.

Miss Walton wore pink chiffon hand painted, over pink, with lace trimmings.

Miss Elizabeth Walton wore mauve chamoisee trimmed with velvet and lace.

Miss Virginia Mahony wore dark blue cloth suit and green and blue hat.

Buffet Luncheon Party

Mrs. Thomas Pepper entertained at luncheon Monday from two to four at her home on Main street, Alleysville, Ky., in honor of Miss Marie Mahony.

The occasion was one of the most brilliant of the season. The library and drawing room were filled with the friends of Mrs. Pepper's and Miss Mahony's.

What shall we say of Miss Mahony whom we have learned to love? She has measured up to our standard of womanly dignity and honor, nor has she been found wanting in any trust reposed in her and now that woman's crowning blessing has come—The love of a brave and chivalrous man—we shall still believe her able to meet worthily the conditions of the new life. And he must be worthy since she has chosen.

The feature of the afternoon was a contest conducted by Mrs. J. J. Hardin and Mrs. Walter Carvell. The questions were read and the answers gotten from music rendered on piano.

A Religious Romance.

(The Meeting)
Marie Mahony was a religious girl and loved to go to church.

And one day at the protracted meeting in Stanford her eyes began to search.

The men who filled the benches and the ladies by their sides.

And near the pulpit sat August Balbach in all his manhood pride.

And it was a large crowd to hear J. C. Daniels preach.

Christ and love and God above and the people to teach.

1.—Who was the hero? The Child of a King.

2.—Where did he meet the heroine? The Little Brown Church in the Wild Wood.

3.—What were they doing? Bringing in the Sheaves.

4.—What did he say? I need Thee Every Hour.

5.—What did she say? Make Me a Channel of Blessing.

6.—What did he say when he first fell in love? There is Sunshine in My Soul Today.

7.—What did she say? Let the Blessed Sunshine in.

8.—How did he woo her? Softly and Tenderly.

9.—For what did he pine? A little Bit of Love.

10.—What did he say when he proposed? Take My Life and Let it Be Consecrated to Thee.

11.—What did she reply? I am Thine.

12.—What did she say when he teased her about going so far away? I'll go Where You Want Me to Go.

13.—What did she tell her father? I Love Him, I Love Him.

14.—What did she promise? To Love and Obey.

15.—Who will be invited to the wedding? Whosoever Will, May Come.

16.—What did she when he first caressed her? Draw me Nearer, Nearer.

17.—How will they spend the honeymoon? In the Good Old Fashioned Way.

18.—What is their life work? Rescue the Perishing.

19.—Where will they go? Greenlands Icy Mountain.

20.—What is the wish of their friends? Bless Be the Tie That Binds.

Ended by wedding march and the guests marched to the dining room for luncheon, where elegant refreshments were served and paper hearts given as favors.

Burleson Returns to Jail

Tolbert Burleson, who with Herman Camp, broke jail here Wednesday night, an account of which appeared in the last issue of the I. J., returned to the jail here Sunday night about 9 o'clock weary and hungry, and asked Jailer Farmer to take him in, that he was tired of dodging the officers and had resolved to serve out his sentence and become a better man. The penalty for breaking jail is confinement in the penitentiary but it is not likely that the charge will be pushed against Burleson, especially if he shows a disposition to reform and make a good prisoner while he is paying the penalty for his past lawless career.

BECKHAM ANNOUNCES

FOR U. S. SENATE

In Response to Demand that Democracy Be Allowed to Fulfill Its Pledges

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 29.—The formal announcement of former Gov. J. C. W. Beckham that he will be a candidate before the Democrats of Kentucky in the August, 1913, State primary election, for the nomination for United States Senator to succeed William O. Bradley, was made here today.

That Gov. Beckham would ask the people of Kentucky to restore to him an honor bestowed by them at polls and then denied in the halls of the General Assembly, has been known for some weeks to those closest to him here. Kentucky news paper editors, Democratic and Republican, have been calling upon him to announce as a candidate, voicing the sentiment of pretty nearly every community in the state, and he has received hundreds of letters, quite a number of them from influential men who have opposed his political aspirations in the past, declaring that he should have no opposition to succeed Senator Bradley.

The announcement reads as follows: In answer to a great many inquiries I feel that I should, without further delay, make known my purpose in regard to the approaching race for the United States senatorship, for which a Democratic nomination is to be made in the state primary next August. Following my retirement from the office of Governor about five years ago and the result of the senatorial election in the General Assembly of 1908, it was not my intention to again seek public office. Eight years of arduous and difficult service as Governor, frequently dealing with serious and critical questions, had prepared me to welcome and enjoy the relief from public responsibilities and the peace of private life which such retirement offered me.

But from the people and the press of the State I have received so many kind and flattering assurances that I might as a Senator from Kentucky be of some useful public service, and gratefully appreciating the honor implied by such expressions, I have decided to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for that office in the primary next August, and to submit my candidacy to the Democratic voters of the state.

I believe that the people of Kentucky have known me long enough and well enough to judge by what principles and purposes I have always been influenced in my public life, and how well or ill I have met every responsibility or obligation confronting me. I have been frank with them at all times, frequently when I believed it to be to my personal disadvantage, and I have never let them remain in doubt about my position upon any important political subject.

So upon the issues now prominent before the country the people of Kentucky well know how I stand and what my course of action would be if I should be elected to the Senate. I am in hearty accord with the principles of the platform of the Baltimore convention, and it would be my endeavor as a member of the Senate, without ostentation or display, to earnestly and efficiently assist President Wilson and his Administration in fulfilling the promises made to the people in that platform and in the recent campaign.

The verdict of the American people in the recent national election was unmistakable and emphatic. They voted for a definite change in certain policies of the Government, the restoration of its control to the people, the dethronement of the power of special interests, relief from the burdens of tariff taxes and tributes, the overthrow of monopoly in our industries, the readjustment of the functions of Government to serve the masses of the people rather than those favored classes which have fattened upon special privileges, and for other just and needed reforms outlined in the Democratic programme. However much we may rejoice over the recent result at the polls, our victory is not yet won, and will not be won, until we have substantially fulfilled these expectations of the people of enacting into laws the promises we have made. It is evident that the admirable man whom we have elected President recognizes the solemnity of the obligations placed upon him in these matters and is essential for the success of his Administration that he should have in the Senate as well as in the House, to aid him in keeping faith with the people, men who are in cordial sympathy with his policies and men who are willing and capable of finishing successfully the work to be begun.

I seek this position as Senator from my native State not merely with any selfish consideration of the honor it may bring me, but for the broad opportunity it would afford me of rendering some useful and patriotic service to the people of the country. I believe that I have had such experience and training as would make me reasonably well prepared for the work. I do not come before the people of Kentucky in this race unknown to or untied by them. In my public career in the past they have had ample opportunities to determine whether or not I can be trusted with official responsibilities, or whether or not I am accustomed to redeem my promises and obligations to them.

Upon their sound judgment and generous confidence I rest my candidacy for this high office, seeking their support if they believe me worthy of it and advising them to vote for some other man if they believe he can more faithfully and successfully serve them.

After this, the fourth number will be late in January. No one can afford to miss this attraction, this Tuesday night.

FIRM DISSOLVES

W. H. Wearen Sells Interest in Big Establishment to Partner.

A large advertisement on another page, tells of the dissolution of the large firm of Cummins & Wearen, who have conducted one of the largest establishments dealing in gent's clothing, shoes and furnishings for a number of years. Mr. W. H. Wearen sold his interest in the store to Mr. Cummins, and in order to close up the partnership they are advertising a big dissolution sale. Mr. J. P. Cummins will continue to operate the business in their big store room at the corner of Main and Depot streets. He is one of the most popular business men in Lincoln county and will undoubtedly keep the establishment up to its standard, as he "goes it alone". Mr. Wearen is considering several good offers, it is understood, but will look over the field thoroughly before making up his mind.

STATE BANK CORN SHOW

A DECIDED SUCCESS

Pronounced by Prof. Smith to be Second Best Exhibit in State—Many Farmers Attend

The corn show given Saturday afternoon by the State Bank & Trust Co., of Stanford, brought out least 150 farmers from all sections of the county and considerable interest was manifested in the lecture by Prof. Wallace V. Smith, of the Kentucky experiment station at Lexington. He was introduced to the assembly by Prof. J. W. Ireland, who called attention to the fact that the agricultural spirit was growing in the state and showed by statistics that 84 per cent of the children who are now in school are from the farm. Smith is quite a young man but his lecture and the accuracy with which he judged the exhibits showed beyond a doubt that he is familiar with his duties and his decisions gave general satisfaction. He paid Lincoln county farmers the compliment of having raised the best corn he had seen outside the county of Jefferson and which was exhibited at the Louisville corn show last week. This speaks volumes of praise as he has been judging corn shows at many Kentucky towns and cities. His lecture was replete with good sound reasoning and gave the farmers some new and valuable ideas. No rule he said could be laid down for the raising of the cereal as much depended upon the land, the chief thing to be ascertained is what properties the land is deficient in. He could not, for lack of time, go into detail as to how to find out what those deficiencies might be, but told his audience that the experiment station at Lexington would send free of charge to any applicant a treatise on nearly every phase of agriculture.

The bank offered four premiums—$5 for the best single ear, of white corn. This was awarded to B. W. Givens, who raised it on his farm at Hubble. Prof. Smith pronounced this ear of corn to be the most perfect one he had ever judged and advised Mr. Givens to send it to the National Corn Show at Columbia, South Carolina in January 1913. The award for the best 12 ears of white corn went to W. R. Gaines of Walnut Flat. It was worth $7.50 and was also pronounced excellent. The second award for the best dozen ears of white was given to Thos. A. Rice. It was worth $5 and was raised by Mr. Rice on his rich blue grass farm on the Stanford and Danville pike. J. Frank Smith captured the award for the best dozen ears of yellow corn, worth $2.50. Mr. Smith raised the display on his place on the cut off pike between Stanford and Shelby City. There were 36 entries in the single ear contest, won by Mr. Givens; 37 in the show for the best dozen ears, won by Mr. Gaines. The five salient points on which the judge based the awards were 1st uniformity of exhibit; 2nd shape of ear; 3rd length of ear; 4th circumference of ear, 5th tips of ears and soundness of kernel.

Cashier M. B. Salin, of the State Bank and Trust Co., who promoted the show, has the thanks and commendation of every one interested in such matters. He devoted much time to it and like everything else he undertakes, he made a success of his efforts.

Prices cut at a time when you need clothes and shoes. Cummins & Wearen.

Restore His Nomination

Candidates for United States Senator are almost as thick as applicants for post office in any country town since the election. Many good men are being "mentioned," but its dollars to doughnuts that the people insist that Mr. Beckham's property will be restored unto him.—Danville Messenger.

A Record Log

The largest log that ever went out of Adair county was hauled to Campbellsville last week by J. N. Atwell, Vester Deal and John Young. The tree was cut on a farm owned by one of the Tupman boys, lying on Green river. The cut hauled weighed 22,083 pounds and contained 22,028 feet of lumber. It was hauled by twelve horses, hooked to an old Hickory wagon bought by Mr. Atwell from the Buchanan Lyon Company, Campbellsville. The tree belonged to Mr. Whitney, the well-known lumber man. The tree and its load was a great attraction, as it entered Campbellsville and also to many people while en route.—Adair County News.
